BODIES FOUND IN WOODS IDENTIFIED AS BROTHERS

Double Murder Bill For Washington County Authorities.

WOMAN IN THE CASE

But No Clue To Perpetrator Of Crime Bodies Buried Today.

A double murder mystery is on the books for Washington county. Coroner Sipe had scarcely begun his investigation into the death of an unknown man whose body was found about two miles from Scenery Hill yesterday afternoon when the mystery was deepened by the finding of another body about 15 feet from the first in the underbrush. An M. and W. section gang found the first body yesterday afternoon close to the tracks. It was partially decomposed and hardly recognizable. Marks of a struggle and the pockets of the dead man's trousers, being turned inside out pointed to murder and robbery.

At 6 o'clock, when men were searching in the thicket for clues to the murder, stumbled upon another partly decomposed body. A revolver was found nearby and three hats indicating that three men were implicated in the strange tragedy. No residents of the Scenery Hill district who view the bodies were able to identify them and it is said no one in the neighborhood has been missing.

The bodies were brought to Monongahela last night and were taken in charge by Deputy Coroner Scord. Coroner Sipe, who with Deputy Scord, had conducted an investigation, found a pocket of one of the dead men a letter.

The letter was addressed to Dominick Castle Shamen, with the date of the letter book found in the pocket was written, "Dear Dominick, do what you can and oblige." James Shannon. Three weeks ago the two men left their homes and had with them three revolvers and their pockets filled with cartridges, presumably on the hunt of the wife of Dominick, who had left with another man. It is thought the quartette met at the railroad junction near Ellsworth and the death of the two brothers was the result.

While making an investigation last night of the body of Dominick, a bullet fell from the skull which practically assures that he met his death from a gun shot. There are no marks on the other body that would indicate he had been shot but two long cuts look as though a knife had been used. The bodies are in a very bad state of decomposition and will be buried this afternoon by Undertaker Scord.

The wife of Dominick has not been seen since her disappearance with the strange man and as he is not known there is practically no clue to the double murder.

DEAD FISH FOUND IN THE RESERVOIR

Hundreds Of The Finny Tribe Can Be Seen Floating Around.

Health Officer Darby in making a tour of inspection of the hill district yesterday afternoon noticed some small boys with a basket of dead fish. Upon inquiry he was told that they had been taken from the reservoir and that it contained many more of the finny tribe.

In investigation showed the sides of the reservoir lined with dead fish of all sizes. The northern side seemed to be effected the worst and the water was immediately turned off and the other side put into use.

Today the water company will drain the reservoir and give it a thorough cleaning out and when again ready for use the one on the south will be cleaned. The cause of such a condition cannot be understood as the water is supposed to be filtered and how fish six and eight inches long can pass through a sand filter cannot be fathomed.

About three months ago the reservoir was drained and put into as good shape as possible.

The cause of the fish dying is attributed to the low condition of the water in the river as there is practically no water running in excepting the sulphur water from the many coal mines along the valley. People who are compelled to use the city water are frequently requested to boil it as this is the only way to avoid a typhoid fever epidemic.

CARS ARE DAMAGED BY DUMPING MACHINES

Members of the special committee appointed by the Pennsylvania railroad sometime ago to investigate conditions at the lake docks in connection with the heavy damage to equipment by the action of car dumpers have completed their work and the report is now in the hands of the executive officials. As a result of this investigation, the first of its kind in the country, a series of meetings will be held by railroad officials, representatives of the vessel owners and manufacturers of the dumping machines used at the lakes in loading and unloading coal and ore.

The committee visited a number of lake ports and steel works where these unloading machines are located and found that in nearly every case a car in passing through one of these machines was damaged to a certain extent. The unloading of 122 cars was witnessed and of this number, 98 percent were damaged. Among the machines tested five different makes were found to exist, differing in construction and operation, but, in so far as their effect on cars is concerned, all the machines are practically the same, for they all have two essential features, the method of clamping the car to the supporting track and the method of protecting the side of the car from the cradle side on which it rests as it turns over.

FAIRMONT AGAIN GIT SHORT END

Cherubs Take Second Game From The West Virginians.

Fairmont, W. Va., Aug. 31.—Charleroi hit Jenkins at opportune time here today and, aided by his wildness, won the game handsily, 5 to 1. Hale was unhit until the fifth when three hits and a hit batsman netted one run, a fast double play retiring the side. The visitors scored two runs in the fourth inning on Dailey's scratch three-bagger, a hit batsman and singles by Urban and Osborne. In the fifth Dunn singled and scored on Dailey's two base hit. They added two more in their half of the seventh on Cosgrove's walk, followed by hits by Toohey and Heinz. McHale retired in the seventh in favor of B. Humphries. Dailey and Haught led in hitting, while Nally made some nice catches in right. Score:

MURDER CHARGED TO "RED HEART" SOCIETY

Not Trifle With Washington County Courts.

Washington, Pa., Aug. 31.—"If there are jury fixers in Allegheny county, we won't have them out here and they do come out and try their work, we will 'sting' them."

In open court this afternoon Judge J. M. Taylor thus ended a severe arraignment of W. J. Tanney, a Pittsburgh detective, whom he fined $10 and costs for contempt of court in refusing to answer a subpoena to appear as witness for the Commonwealth in the trial of W. L. Lenhart, of Brownsville.

The court ordered the district attorney to bring formal charges against Tanney for alleged jury tampering. The proceedings furnished a sensational climax to the trial of Lenhart on a charge of conspiracy to defraud the Peoples bank of California.

This afternoon Attorney Rody Marshall, of Pittsburgh, appeared in court and informed the judge that Tanney, his client, would appear in 10 minutes. Shortly afterward Tanney walked into the court room and seated himself beside his attorney. Mr. Marshall then informed the judge that Tanney admitted he was in contempt and was ready to receive his sentence. Hence the sentence was imposed. However, District Attorney Acheson had Tanney sworn and began to examine him. Tanney admitted he had been engaged in work with the jury.

"What has been your business in Washington?" asked the district attorney.

"I've been investigating the Lenhart jury," was the reply.

"Did you pursue your operations as the jury had been sworn?" was asked. "Yes, sir," replied Tanney. "I was afraid they would jail me," said the detective.

District Attorney Acheson then asked Tanney if there was with the defendant an attorney with offices in the Frick building, Pittsburgh, who was engaged in jury fixing with him and who was registered at a local hotel under the name of Fred Martin. Tanney, on the advice of his attorney, refused to answer on the ground that he would incriminate himself.

The district attorney then asked him if he was not in the employ of a Pittsburgh attorney named Fred Mercer, alias Fred Martin, but Tanney again refused to answer. Judge Taylor said he could only punish Tanney for contempt of court, but expressed regret that he could not impose a sentence for the more serious offense.

"It will be the duty of the district attorney," said Judge Taylor, to prefer formal charge of jury tampering at once against this man." Tonight the district attorney did not complete his formal complaint against the former Pittsburgh police captain, but he will lodge an information against him tomorrow.

MURDER CHARGED TO "RED HEART" SOCIETY

According to the belief of Monessen officers, the murder of Bert Regoli at Large, near Elizabeth, last week, has been traced to the "Red Heart," a murderous society which, it is said, operates extensively in Italy. There is no clew, however, that is likely to lead to the identification of the murderer or murderers.

It was at first thought after the body had been discovered that Regoli had been murdered for his money but when $62.50 was later found in his clothes that theory was passed by. Today an Italian with whom Regoli boarded stated that Regoli had been terrorized several days previous to his death by letters from Italy, the envelopes bearing a red heart, the symbol of the society.

Allegheny county detectives have been notified of the discovery as to the red heart and will take up the case from that standpoint.

PUBLIC SCHOOLS OPENED TODAY

Large Attendance Looked For Teachers Hold Meeting.

Back to the school room and studies after the usual summer vacation trooped the Charleroi pupils this morning. Prim little girls with starched frocks could be seen wending their way to the different buildings, the majority of the boys marching along with lagging steps.

It will not be until tomorrow or possibly two or three days from now that the schools will settle down to their usual routine. Today will be spent in preparations for the term, classifying the students and the pupils and the general first day's duties of seating and other details.

Yesterday afternoon was spent in a meeting of the teachers and principals and the years work ahead was carefully gone over. Short talks were given by those present the general line of conversation being on the co-operation of all for another successful school term.

Representatives were present from seven places which are desirous of entering the league and in all the meeting was an enthusiastic one. The places already secured to enter the league are Roscoe, Dunlevy, Donora, New Eagle, Gallatin, Monongahela and Monessen.

The league was launched by electing Joseph Craig of Roscoe, president and L. E. Flint, of Monongahela, secretary and treasurer. Another meeting will be held at the Hotel Main on next Thursday evening at seven o'clock at which time a name for the league will be chosen as well as other matters pertaining to the preliminaries arranged. A schedule will also be decided upon at this meeting.

John West Found Along Road Near Lock No 4.

NO CAUSE IS GIVEN

For His Rash Act But Is Thought He Was Drinking.

Sitting along the road near Lock Four, with a carbolic acid vial in his hand, John West a well known colored man of Charleroi was found yesterday afternoon. He was at first noticed by children playing along the road and after some time they notified officer Mathers of Lock No. 4, the children thinking the man in a drunken stupor. Mathers immediately made an investigation and found that the man had drank the contents of the bottle. He was still in a conscious condition and an effort was made to get him to a house nearby where medical attention could be given but the man expired before reaching the house.

There is no cause given for the man's act as no trouble of any kind is known to have existed. It is known that West was addicted to the liquor habit and it is thought that while under its influence he committed the act.

West who is about 40 years old had been employed by W. W. Piper on his farm near Lock No. 4 and made his home with Mr. Piper. He left yesterday afternoon presumably on his way to Charleroi. West has made his home near Charleroi for several years and was well known. He formerly lived at Centerville, where his parents reside at this time.

He was the son of Mr. and Mrs. Noah West of Centerville and besides his parents four brothers survive him. They are Daniel and Thomas of Charleroi and Jesse and Dudley who live at home. His body will be taken to Centerville for interment.

Bank Deposits

Bryan and the Democrats are making much fuss these days on the subject of guaranteeing bank deposits.
At first blush the idea seems good,
like many of Bryan's "glorious"
schemes, but upon maturer reflection the soundness of the doctrine does not make such an appeal. The banking idea is centuries old and the systems in vogue now in the civilized centuries are the revolutions of the old basic principle of trust in trust worthy men, with the added safety which wise legal restraint may impose.

There have been failures and losses
of money attendant upon this system, but the guaranteeing of deposits will not eradicate this. The question is whether the percentage of losses through bank failures or misapplication of funds would not increase were the responsibility of depriving innocent parties of their goods and comfort removed from the shoulders of those in position to work these wrongs.
In other words, if a hard pressed bank official should feel that his de-positors would not suffer through his act would he yield sooner to temptation than under present conditions?
This matter is worthy of deep thought,
more, in fact, than the impetuous opportunism of Bryan will accord to any problem and did accord in this.

Another feature of the Bryan doctrine is found in the distribution of the burden of bank losses so that they will bear equally as hard upon the shoulders of the careful, the conservative and the honest bank official and bank depositor as they do upon the reckless or the heedless. Almost every man nowadays is familiar with banks and banking methods. Let him give this matter some thought and he will find that the question is not one, in which conclusions may be traced at.

Many bankers and many statesmen are giving the banking question much attention these days, especially since the experience of the past twelve-months. This matter, as well as many others raised, will secure its share of attention into consideration until it is determined whether it is both wise and prudent.

How Big is Billy Bryan?

"How big is Billy Bryan, pap,
And what's his newest graft—
Can he put up a decent scrap
To Billy Howard Taft?"

"Is he so awful big and fat—
Is his platform so wide,
That any breed of democrat
Can stand on it and ride?"

"Oh! no, my darling little son
Bill isn't very tall.
'Tis not his stature makes him run
But his colossal gall.

"As to the scrap he can put up,
November next will tell,
Twice he has failed to land the cup,
Twice he was beat like—

"About the platform, little man,
One plank in it I feel
Will 'can' the last republican,
Its this 'thou shalt not steal'?"

"Yes, dad, that plank would do to
eat;
Go, on, I want it all,
Did Bill on silver get cold feet
Ain't he got it this fall?"

"No, no, my darling little lad,
Bill is some little sane,
Twice silver's done him mighty bad,
Would he be 'done' again?"

"Well, pa, ain't Bill got some new boards
To fill up the old holes,
Which the conglomerated boards Can hang to at the polls?"

"Well, yes, my child there are some rays
Of hope still left for Bill.
One is to take the blamed railways
From Harriman and Hill.

"Your Uncle Sam, he'd have them
run,
As public institutions,
He's hustling now to raise the mon-
By dollar contributions.

"Then there's the ugly measly banks,
He'll turn across his knee
And give them some resounding spansks
And make them guarantee.

"Well, dad, here is to running Bill,
And when I'm big and tall,
As he will sure be running still,
I'll vote for him, that's all.

Narrowly Escaped Injury.

A frightful accident was narrowly averted yesterday by the presence of mind of the man in danger, at the Macbeth-Evans Glass factory. W.
C. James was testing the iron bands on one of the large dome-shaped tanks, when one of the bands snapped.
Mr. James was on top of the tank at the time, but jumped just in time to save himself.

Had James stayed on top of the
tank for a moment longer, the roof would have given in and he would have been precipitated into the hot glass almost in a molten stage to be literally roasted alive. As it was,
he was compelled to jump 15 feet from the top of the dome to the ground. He was somewhat shaken up by the jump, but soon recovered himself and went on with his work.

The tank is bound with two inch iron bands and it was the breaking of one of these which almost caused an accident. The band as originally set had been tampered with and loosened, and some employee attempted to tighten it while James was on top of the tank. The heat from the tank then caused the metal to expand and break.

Tortoise Importations.

Few people have any conception of the vast number of tortoises which are imported every year to be dispersed over the country. To say that from 30,000 to 40,000, according to climatic conditions, arrived here annually is by no means an exaggeration. Allowing 5,000 for death and re-exportation, we get an average of 31,000 which remain in the country during the year; in other words, one tortoise to every 31 square miles of the British Islands, one person in every 1,400 possessing a tortoise.

A "carload of monkeys," has long been a standing jest, but a "carload of tortoises" is reality. Packed in barrels, boxes and crates, they are sent over here in consignments from 1,000 to 3,000 at a time, and, extraordinary as it may seem, the death rate is only about 1 per cent if in barrels and 1 in 300 if in cases. In size they vary from youngsters 2 inches long and weighing hardly an ounce to pariahs 9 inches long and weighing more than five pounds. Two extra large specimens imported recently were 11 inches long, 8 inches and 7.5 inches across the broadest part of the plastron, 20.5 inches and 16.5 inches round the shell latitudinally, and 27 inches and 25 inches longitudinally, while they weighed respectively 7 pounds 2 ounces and 5 pounds 4 ounces.

Ever since Gilbert White immortali-zied his pet tortoise these animals have been kept by many people as
"destroyers of beetles and slugs and guardians of the kitchen garden," a false idea that no amount of repudiation has been able to eliminate.
Though they will eat snails with much relish they greatly prefer their owner's choicest garden produce. Nevertheless a tortoise is the most popular of reptiles and people will continue to keep them (so long as they do not make their escape—and I have known one to surmount a four-foot wall with only creepers for a foothold.) In this case there is not fear that the enormous demand will decrease, though whether the supply will ever go up is a question difficult to answer.
—London Field

A Gingham Dainty.

It is estimated that two-thirds of the Island of Ceylon is undermined by white ants. The number of these insects is certainly quite incalculable;
but it is fortunate that their natural enemies are almost as numerous.

The workers are preyed upon by true ants and many other insects; by spiders, lizards and centipedes; by rats, mice and palm squirrels. But it is the adult winged insects that are especially victimized. It is probable that scarcely 1 per cent of the mature insects survive the dangers of the periodic fights. They run the gauntlet of nearly every other animal. Birds, bats, squirrels, rats, toads and lizards all flock to the feast. Dogs and cats eat the winged ants with avidity.

"Even man himself does not disdain to participate," says E. E.
Green. "The Tamil coolie looks upon a mess of fried termites as a great dainty and I have several European acquaintances who consider that termites on toast form a dish worthy of more general inclusion in the menu.
They are said to taste not unlike mushrooms."—Botanic Gardens.

The Newspapers.

The local newspaper belong to the town in which it is published. It is expected to further every legitimate local enterprise, but it does not necessarily follow that it has to humble itself and stultify its editor by advocating things which will not benefit the town but the one who have axes to grind. The newspaper of today does not receive nor does it expect to be paid for its services rendered the public. Yet there are a few things

A man entered a Tenderloin drug store the other day and asked for a telephone, says the New York Tribune.
He was evidently from out of town.
"Do I pay you first or afterward?" he asked the clerk when the instrument in question was pointed out to him.
"You call your number and then put your dime in the slot," snapped the clerk. The stranger was suspicious.
"In that hole there?" he asked, looking all around the telephone and fingering the slot dubiously. "Yes." "I guess not," said he, turning away, with de-

Making More Than

Nearly every man who works steadily makes more than a liv-

the men who have saved something appreciate what it is to have something laid away for a

Exit "The Merry Widow" Hat.

The flat has gone out from Paris that woman's hats must be small, "no larger than a saucer." Any release from the thralldom of the "Merry Widow" monstrosity is to be welcomed. Yet the fashion-plates which preserve the styles of small hats worn by our grandmothers when Eugenie was Empress indicate possibilities in the new form of headgear which may well excite apprehension. Who is the arbiter of fashion whose periodical edicts command object feminine obedience the world over? Empresses no longer dictate styles. They yield, like the rest of humankind, to a higher authority, the whispered word of whose wishes uttered at the Auteuil or Champs Elysees is conveyed on the wings of the wind and throughout the realms of fashion, not without something of the subtle mystery which marks the quick transmission of news among the native races of India.

As soon as spoken the word is heard in London, New York, St. Petersburg, even nowadays in Constantinople, where French fashions are phase of the new regime. It moves mill agents to countermand their orders, sets the looms to work on new materials and transforms the appearance of the shop windows in all cities. The laws of the Medes and Persians were not so flexible. Yet there are detected symptoms of revolt in America. Was the "sheath gown" too arbitrary an innovation?

Double Murder Bill For
Washington County
Authorities.

WOMAN IN THE CASE

But No Clue To Perpetrator
Of Crime Bodies Buried
Today.

A double murder mystery is on the books for Washington county. Coroner Sipe had scarcely begun his investigation into the death of an unknown man whose body was found about two miles from Scenery Hill yesterday afternoon when the mystery was deepened by the finding of another body about 15 feet from the first in the underbrush. An M. and W. section gang found the first body yesterday afternoon close to the tracks. It was partially decomposed and hardly recognizable. Marks of a struggle and the pockets of the dead man's trousers, being turned inside out pointed to murder and robbery.

At 6 o'clock, when men were searching in the thicket for clues to the murder, stumbled upon another partly decomposed body. A revolver was found nearby and three hats indicating that three men were implicated in the strange tragedy. No residents of the Scenery Hill district who viewed the bodies were able to identify them and it is said no one in the neighborhood has been missing.

The bodies were brought to Monongahela last night and were taken in charge by Deputy Coroner Scarfield. Coroner Sipe, who with Deputy Scarfield conducted an investigation, found in a pocket of one of the dead men a letter.

It was addressed to Dominick Scenery, Scenery, Pa., with the date of the note book found in the pocket was written, "do what you can and oblige." James is a Justice of the Peace in Scenery and was sent for by Scarfield. He arrived in Monongahela this morning and positively identified the bodies as those of Dominick Scenery and James Mollick, both of Scenery.

About three weeks ago the two men left their homes and had with them three revolvers and their pockets filled with cartridges, presumably on the hunt of the wife of Dominick, who had left with another man. It is thought the quartette met at the railroad junction near Ellerswood and the death of the two brothers was the result.

While making an investigation last night of the body of Dominick a bullet fell from the skull which practically assures that he met his death from a gun shot. There are no marks on the other body that would indicate he had been shot but two long cuts look as though a knife had been used. The bodies are in a very bad state of decomposition and will be buried this afternoon by Undertaker Scarfield.

The wife of Dominick has not been seen since her disappearance with the strange man and as he is not known there is practically no clue to the double murder.

DEAD FISH FOUND IN THE RESERVOIR

Hundreds Of The Finny Tribe
Can Be Seen Floating Around.

Health Officer Darby in making a tour of inspection of the hill district yesterday afternoon noticed some small boys with a basket of dead fish. Upon inquiry he was told that they had been taken from the reservoir and that it contained many more of the finny tribe.

In investigation showed the sides of the reservoir lined with dead fish of all sizes. The northern side seemed to be effected the worst and the water was immediately turned off and the other side put into use.

Today the water company will drain the reservoir and give it a thorough cleaning out and when again ready for use the one on the south will be cleaned. The cause of such a condition cannot be understood as the water is supposed to be filtered and how fish six and eight inches long can pass through a sand filter cannot be fathomed.

About three months ago the reservoir was drained and put into as good shape as possible.

The cause of the fish dying is attributed to the low condition of the water in the river as there is practically no water running in excepting the sulphur water from the many coal mines along the valley. People who are compelled to use the city water are urged to boil it as this is the only way to guard against a typhoid fever epidemic.

Members of the special committee appointed by the Pennsylvania railroad sometime ago to investigate conditions at the lake docks in connection with the heavy damage to equipment by the action of car dumpers have completed their work and the report is now in the hands of the executive officials. As a result of this investigation, the first of its kind in the country, a series of meetings will be held by railroad officials, representatives of the vessel owners and manufacturers of the dumping machines used at the lakes in loading and unloading coal and ore.

The committee visited a number of lake ports and steel works where these unloading machines are located and found that in nearly every case a car in passing through one of these machines was damaged to a certain extent. The unloading of 122 cars was witnessed and of this number, 98 percent were damaged. Among the machines tested five different makes were found to exist, differing in construction and operation, but, in so far as their effect on cars is concerned, all the machines are practically the same, for they all have two essential features, the method of clamping the car to the supporting track and the method of protecting the side of the car from the cradle side on which it rests as it turns over.

Cherubs Take Second

Fairmont, W. Va., Aug. 31.—Cherubs hit Jenkins at opportune time here today and, aided by his wildness, won the game handsily, 5 to 1. Hale was unhit until the fifth when, three hits, he hit batsman, getting one run, 2 fast double hits retiring the side. The visitors scored two runs in the fourth inning on Dailey's scratch three-bagger, a hit, batsman and singles by Urban and Osborne. In the fifth Dunn singled and scored on Dailey's two base hit. They added two more in their half of the seventh on Cosgrove's walk, followed by hits by Toohy and Heinz. McHale retired in the seventh in favor of B. Humphries. Dailey and Hought led in hitting, while Nally made some nice catches in right.

MUST FACE A SERIOUS CHARGE

Not Trifle With
Washington County
Courts.

Washington, Pa., Aug. 31.—"If there are jury fixers in Allegheny county, we won't have them out here, and if they do come out and try their worst, we will 'sting' them." The open court this afternoon Judge J. L. Taylor thus ended a severe arraignment of W. J. Lantry, a Pittsburgh detective, whom he fined $10 and costs for contempt of court in refusing to answer a subpoena to appear as witnesses for the Commonwealth in the trial of W. L. Lenhart, of Brownsville.

The court ordered the district attorney to bring formal charges against Tanney for alleged jury tampering. The proceedings furnished a sensational climax to the trial of Lenhart on a charge of conspiracy to defraud the Peoples bank of California. This afternoon Attorney Rody Marshall, of Pittsburgh, appeared in court and informed the judge that Tanney, his client, would appear in 10 minutes. Shortly afterward Tanney waited into the court room and seated himself beside his attorney. Mr. Marshall then informed the Judge that Tanney admitted he was in contempt and was ready to receive his sentence. Before the sentence was imposed, however, District Attorney Acheson had Tanney sworn and began to examine him. Tanney admitted he had been engaged in work with the jury.

"What has been your business in Washington?" asked the district attorney. "I've been investigating the Lenhart jury," was the reply. "And you pursue your operations under the jury had been sworn?" was asked. "Yes, sir," replied Tanney. "Why did you run away and refuse to testify after you had promised me that you would appear in court on Friday morning as a witness for the Commonwealth?" queried the district attorney.

"I was afraid they would jail me," said the detective. District Attorney Acheson then asked Tanney if there was with the defendant an attorney with offices in the Frick building, Pittsburgh, who was engaged in jury fixing with him and who was registered at a local hotel under the name of Fred Martin. Tanney, on the advice of his attorney, refused to answer on the ground that he would incriminate himself.

The district attorney then asked him if he was not in the employ of a Pittsburgh attorney named Fred Mercer, alias Fred Martin, but Tanney again refused to answer. Judge Taylor said he could only punish Tanney for contempt of court, but expressed regret that he could not impose a sentence for the more serious offense.

"It will be the duty of the district attorney," said Judge Taylor, to prefer formal charge of jury tampering at once against this man." Tonight the district attorney did not complete his formal complaint against the former Pittsburgh police captain, but he will lodge an information against him tomorrow.

According to the belief of Monessen officers, the murder of Bert Regoli at Large, near Elizabeth, last week, has been traced to the "Red Heart," a murderous society which, it is said, operates extensively in Italy. There is no clew, however, that is likely to lead to the identification of the murderer or murderers.

It was at first thought after the body had been discovered that Regoli had been murdered for his money but when $62.50 was later found in his clothes that theory was passed by. Today an Italian with whom Regoli boarded stated that Regoli had been terrorized several days previous to his death by letters from Italy, the envelopes bearing a red heart, the symbol of the society.

Allegheny county detectives have been notified of the discovery as to the red heart and will leave up the case from that standpoint.

Meeting.

Back to the school room and studies after the usual summer vacation trooped the Charleroi pupils this morning. Prim little girls with starched frocks could be seen wending their way to the different buildings, the majority of the boys marching along with lagging steps.

It will not be until tomorrow or possibly two or three days from now that the schools will settle down to their usual routine. Today will be spent in preparations for the term, classifying the studies and the pupils and the general first day's duties of seating and other details.

Yesterday afternoon was spent in a meeting of the teachers and principals and the years work ahead was carefully gone over. Short talks were given by those present the general line of conversation being on the co-operation of all for another successful school term.

FOOT BALL LEAGUE FORMED SATURDAY

A meeting of those interested in the formation of a league of Association football teams was held at Monongahela Saturday evening. Representatives were present from seven places which are desirous of entering the league and in all the meeting was an enthusiastic one. The places already secured to enter the league are Roscoe, Dunlevy, Donora, New Eagle, Gallatin, Monongahela and Monessen. The league was launched by electing Joseph Craig of Roscoe, president and L. E. Flint, of Monongahela, secretary and treasurer. Another meeting will be held at the Hotel Main on next Thursday evening at seven o'clock at which time a name for the league will be chosen as well as other matters pertaining to the preliminaries arranged. A schedule will also be decided upon at this meeting.

The league will be composed of teams representing towns along the valley only, and there will be either eight or ten teams.

William Abbott of West Monongahela has donated a handsome pennant which will be given to the winning team and in all the outlook is for some fast football the coming season. The league will open on September 13.

John West Found Along
Road Near Lock
No 4.

NO CAUSE IS GIVEN

For His Rash Act But Is Thought He Was Drinking.

Sitting along the road near Lock Four, with a carbolic acid vial in his hand, John West a well known colored man of Charleroi was found yesterday afternoon. He was at first noticed by children playing along the road and after some time they notified officer Mathers of Lock No. 4, the children thinking the man in a drunken stupor. Mathers immediately made an investigation and found that the man had drank the contents of the bottle. He was still in a conscious condition and an effort was made to get him to a house nearby where medical attention could be given but the man expired before reaching the house.

There is no cause given for the man's act as no trouble of any kind is known to have existed. It is known that West was addicted to the liquor habit and it is thought that while under its influence he committed the act.

West who is about 40 years old had been employed by W. W. Piper on his farm near Lock No. 4 and made his home with Mr. Piper. He left yesterday afternoon presumably on his way to Charleroi. West has made his home near Charleroi for several years and was well known. He formerly lived at Centerville where his parents reside at this time.

He was the son of Mr. and Mrs. Noah West of Centerville and besides his parents four brothers survive him. They are Danjei and Thomas of Charleroi and Jesse and Dudley who live at home. His body will be taken to Centerville for interment.

"A FEW MINUTES SLOW"

If your watch runs that way it means the loss of your train, or the missing of your appointment, sooner or later. If your pocket piece doesn't show the minute correctly, there's no use keeping it. A little practice will make you just as good a time guesser yourself. No watch leaves this shop that hasn't been tested and regulated for months before its sale.

Bank Deposits

Bryan and the Democrats are making much fuss these days on the subject of guaranteeing bank deposits.
At first blush the idea seems good,
like many of Bryan's "glorious"
schemes, but upon maturer reflection
the soundness of the doctrine does not make such an appeal. The banking
idea is centuries old and the systems
in vogue now in the civilized centuries are the revolutions of the old basic
principle of trust in trust worthy men,
with the added safety which wise
legal restraint may impose.

There have been failures and losses
of money attendant upon this system,
but the guaranteeing of deposits will not eradicate this. The question is whether the percentage of losses
through bank failures or misapplication of funds would not increase were
the responsibility of depriving innocent parties of their goods and comfort removed from the shoulders of those in position to work these wrongs.
In other words, if a hard pressed
bank official should feel that his de-positors would not suffer through his
act would he yield sooner to temptation than under present conditions?
This matter is worthy of deep thought,
more, in fact, than the impetuous opportunism of Bryan will accord to
any problem and did accord in this.

Another feature of the Bryan doctrine is found in the distribution of the burden of bank losses, so that they will bear equally as hard upon the
shoulders of the careful, the conservative and the honest bank official and bank depositor as they do upon the reckless or the heedless. Almost every man nowadays is familiar with banks and banking methods. Let

him give this matter some thought
and he will find that the question is
leaped at.

Many bankers and many statesmen
are giving the banking question much attention these days, especially since
the experience of the past twelve months. This matter, as well as many others raised, will secure its share of attention into consideration
until it is determined whether it is both wise and prudent.

How Big is Billy Bryan?

"How big is Billy Bryan, pap,
And what's his newest graft—
Can he put up a decent scrap
To Billy Howard Taft?"

"Is he so awful big and fat—
Is his platform so wide,
That any breed of democrat
Can stand on it and ride?"

"Oh! no, my darling little son
Bill isn't very tall.
'Tis not his stature makes him run
But his colossal gait."

"As to the scrap he can put up, Noble as that may be—

Twice he has failed to land the cup,
Twice he was beat like—

"About the platform, little man,
One plank in it I feel
Will 'can' the last republican,
Its this 'thou shalt not steal'?"

"Yes, dad, that plank would do to
eat;

Go, on, I want it all,
Did Bill on silver get cold feet
Ain't he got it this fall?"

"No, no, my darling little lad,
Bill is some little sane,
Twice silver's done him mighty bad,
Would he be 'done' again?"

"Well, pa, ain't Bill got some new
boards
To fill up the old holes,
Which the conglomerated hoards
Can bang to at the polls?"

"Well, yes, my child there are some
rays
Of hope still left for Bill.
One is to take the blamed railways
From Harriman and Hill."

"Your Uncle Sam, he'd have them
run,
As public institutions.
He's hustling now to raise the mon
By dollar contributions."

"Then there's the ugly measly banks,
He'll turn across his knee
And give them some resounding spansks
And make them guarantee."

"Well, dad, here is to running Bill,
And when I'm big and tall,
As he will sure be running still,
I'll vote for him, that's all."

—Omaha Bee.

Narrowly Escaped Injury.

A frightful accident was narrowly
averted yesterday by the presence of mind of the man in danger, at the Macbeth-Evans Glass factory. W.
C. James was testing the iron bands
on one of the large dome-shaped
tanks, when one of the bands snapped.
Mr. James was on top of the tank at the time, but jumped just in time to save himself.

Had James stayed on top of the
tank for a moment longer, the roof
would have given in and he would have been precipitated into the hot
glass almost in a molten stage to be literally roasted alive. As it was,
he was compelled to jump 15 feet
from the top of the dome to the ground. He was somewhat shaken
up by the jump, but soon recovered
himself and went on with his work.

The tank is bound with two inch
iron bands and it was the breaking of
one of these which almost caused an accident. The band as originally set
had been tampered with and loosened, and some employe attempted to tighten it while James was on top of the tank. The heat from the tank then
caused the metal to expand and break.

The Wily Artist.

"Want your hair trimmed close, sir?"
"Medium."
"Yes, sir." Snip, snip, snip. "Like to try our bay rum shampoo, sir?"
"No?" Snip, snip, snip.
"Shave yourself, sir?"
"Yes." Snip, snip.
"Excellent work. I don't know another man who could shave himself as well as that—smooth and clean and thorough. Better try our shampoo, sir."

What's in a Word?

Two men were discussing the trouble in India, and each had a deal to say about his notion of Hindoo character.
"They're such a bellicose set of people," said one.
"Indeed?" exclaimed the other in surprise. "I was always under the impression that they were very spare men."—Harper's Weekly.

for an hour or two."—Cleveland Plain

Tortoise Importations.

Few people have any conception of
the vast number of tortoises which are imported every year to be dispersed over the country. To say that from 30,000 to 40,000, according to
climatic conditions, arrived here annually is by no means an exaggeration. Allowing 5,000 for death and re-exportation, we get an average of 31,000 which remain in the country
during the year; in other words, one tortoise to every 31 square miles of the British Islands, one person in every 1,400 possessing a tortoise.

A "carload of monkeys," has long been a standing jest, but a "carload
of tortoises" is reality. Packed in barrels, boxes and crates, they are sent over here in consignments from 1,000 to 3,000 at a time, and, extraordinary as it may seem, the death rate is only about 1 per cent if in barrels and 1 in 300 if in cases. In size they vary from youngsters 2 inches long and weighing hardly an ounce to patriarchs 9 inches long and weighing more than five pounds. Two extra large specimens imported recently
were 11 inches long, 8 inches and 7.5
inches across the broadest part of the plastron, 20.5 inches and 16.5 inches
round the shell latitudinally, and 27
inches and 25 inches longitudinally, while they weighed respectively 7 pounds 2 ounces and 5 pounds 4 ounces.

Ever since Gilbert White immortalized his pet tortoise these animals have been kept by many people as
"destroyers of beetles and slugs and
guardians of the kitchen garden," a false idea that no amount of repudiation has been able to eliminate.
Though they will eat snails with much
relish they greatly prefer their owner's choicest garden produce. Nevertheless a tortoise is the most popular
of reptiles and people will continue to keep them (so long as they do not make their escape—and I have known
one to surmount a four-foot wall with only creepers for a foothold.) In this case there is not fear that the
enormous demand will decrease,
though whether the supply will ever
go up is a question difficult to answer.
—London Field.

A Gingalese Dainty.

It is estimated that two-thirds of the Island of Ceylon is undermined by white ants. The number of these insects is certainly quite incalculable;
but it is fortunate that their natural
enemies are almost as numerous.

The workers are preyed upon by true ants and many other insects; by spiders, lizards and centipedes; by rats, mice and palm squirrels. But it is the adult winged insects that are especially victimized. It is probable that scarcely 1 per cent of the mature insects survive the dangers of the periodic fights. They run the gauntlet
of nearly every other animal. Birds,
bats, squirrels, rats, toads and lizards
all flock to the feast. Dogs and cats eat the winged ants with avidity.

"Even man himself does not disdain to participate," says E. E.
Green. "The Tamil coolie looks upon a mess of fried termites as a great dainty and I have several European acquaintances who consider that termites on toast form a dish worthy
of more general inclusion in the menu.
They are said to taste not unlike mushrooms."—Rotanic Gardens.

Suspicious.

A man entered a Tenderloin drug store the other day and asked for a telephone. says the New York Tribune.
He was evidently from out of town.
"Do I pay you first or afterward?" he asked the clerk when the instrument
in question was pointed out to him.
"You call your number and then put your dime in the slot," snapped the clerk. The stranger was suspicious.
"In that hole there?" he asked, looking all around the telephone and fidgeting
the slot dubiously. "Yes." "I guess
not," said he, turning away, with decision. "I ain't lookin' fer no savin's bank."

"It is too bad," said Mrs. Oldcastle.
"that our curate seems likely to be a valetudinarian all his life."
"Why, he ain't, is he?" replied her hostess as she toyed with her diamond studded lorgnette. "I'm almost sure I seen him eatin' beefsteak at the dinner in the parish house night before last."

Making More Than a Living

Nearly every man who works
steadily makes more than a living. During these slow times the men who have saved something appreciate what it is to have something laid away for a rainy day. A few cents a day soon counts up, and when savings are placed in a bank at a tidy interest the sum soon grows to proportions that make it a safeguard against want when work is not plentiful. Figure up how much more than a living you are making now, and place the difference in this bank.

Exit "The Merry Widow" Hat.

The flat has gone out from Paris that woman's hats must be small, "no larger than a saucer." Any release from the thralldom of the "Merry Widow" monstrosity is to be welcomed. Yet the fashion-plates which preserve the styles of small hats worn by out grandmothers when Eugenie was Empress indicate possibilities in the new form of headgear which may well excite apprehension. Who is the arbiter of fashion whose periodical edicts command object feminine obedience the world over? Empresses no longer dictate styles. They yield, like the rest of humankind, to a higher authority, the whispered word of whose wisest uttered at the Auteuil or Longchamps races is conveyed on the wings of the wind and throughout the realms of fashion, not without something of the subtle mystery which marks the quick transmission of news among the native races of India.

As soon as spoken the word is heard in London, New York, St. Petersburg, even nowadays in Constantinople, where French fashions are phase of the new regime. It moves mill agents to command their orders, sets the looms to work on new materials and transforms the appearance of the shop windows in all cities. The laws of the Medes and Persians were not so flexible. Yet there are detected symptoms of revolt in America. Was the "sheath gown" too arbitrary an innovation?
